ABOUT ME

Upon graduating from the American University in Bulgaria in 2017, I set myself on the personal mission to be exceptional. By my last year there, I had enough people interested in my skills to start a 3-year journey in the world of freelance.

Working with individuals and businesses globally, handling small and medium projects, and leading a tight team involved with six-figure corporations, I was able to learn even more and further hone in my skills and discipline.

Now, I'm looking for a team that will push me to get even better. All that I have learned, all that I can contribute and all that I will continue to learn goes to the company that inspires me.
